

Ben Hammond

Managing director of insight and consultancy

Ben joined the lang cat as Managing director of insight and consulting in September 2023, despite owning only a dog. Prior to hopping into the basket, he worked as an industry consultant for almost a decade and has been involved in financial services for more than two of them.

His passion (if that's the right word) has been platforms and technology since his time at M&G Wealth, née Ascentric, and Cofunds, where he worked hard to develop new and innovative products and solutions. Ben is a regular contributor to the press, judges a few different awards (and can often be found at the associated ceremonies) and is always up for a coffee and a chat; however, his music choices are sometimes frowned upon and so he often finds himself banned from accessing the office Sonos.
